

Edwin HUI

Professor, Bioethics and Christianity & Chinese Culture, Dean of Chinese Studies Program

AB (UCLA), MD, PhD (British Columbia), DipCS, MTS (Regent College)

Before Edwin Hui came to Regent in 1990, he worked as a medical scientist and clinician for a little over 10 years and held the position of Vice Chief-of-Staff of the Regional Medical Center, Los Angeles. Edwin lectures regularly in China, and is currently an adjunct professor at Peking, Fudan, and Sichuan Universities as well as adjunct research fellow in four other universities in China. In 2000, he was appointed consultant ethicist for the Chinese National Laboratory on the Human Genome Project and has been Visiting Professor of Clinical Medical Ethics at the University of Hong Kong since 1999. He has published widely in bioethics and in Christianity and Chinese culture. He is currently finishing a Dictionary of Chinese Medical Ethics which is a "first" in the Chinese Language. Edwin is married and has three children.

Select Book Titles: Christian Character, Virtue and Bioethics; An Introduction to Christian Theological Thought; At the Beginning of Life: Delemmas in Theological Bioethics.